Obama courts Philly's big money donors

If you're going to today's 1 p.m. Phillies-Red Sox game, take public transportation. With President Barack Obama in town for a 3:30 p.m. fundraiser in Center City followed by one in Mt. Airy, state police warn of "numerous road closures.

The first event — a $250-$2,500 Obama Victory Fund 2012 Kick-Off Reception with the President — is sponsored by the campaign's GenerationForty-Four program and the Democratic National Committee at the Hyatt at The Bellevue. Then he'll head up to the Mt. Airy home of David L. Cohen, the current Comcast exec who served as then-Mayor Ed Rendell's chief of staff. That's a $10,000-a-head affair, where $100,000 gets you up-close face time.

The events come on the last day of a fundraising quarter for which the Obama campaign has set a $60 million goal, and at a time when super-PACs started airing issue-driven ads in battleground states. The Cohen event also comes as Obama faces mounting concerns from Jewish Democrats in the wake of his May 19 speech about the Arab Spring. METRO/BPH

City's best carts? There's an award

Vendy Awards, which has honored best of street vendors in NYC for six years and LA last year, comes to Philly Nominees announced today

The inaugural Philly Vendy Awards, which will honor the best food truck chefs in the city, is announcing eight finalists today that will compete for the coveted Vendy Cup and People's Choice Award next Saturday.

"We were introduced to the amazing Philly street food scene last year when we brought three vendors up to showcase their food at the NYC Vendys," said Managing Director Helena Tubis. "From there we were hooked: Philadelphia has such a diverse and strong street food culture that we couldn't stay away."

Finalists nominated by online voters include Jose Garces' roving Guapos Tacos, Magic Carpet in West Philadelphia and the Far From Home Cafe, which is unable to compete due to a catering commitment.

"We have some amazing food trucks that other cities should be envious of," said judge Jaimie Shanker, who runs the Midtown Lunch Philadelphia food blog. "These days, we can eat from trucks that are a little dingy and have been well-loved for years or the new, shiny truck right next to it who communicates via Twitter."

Other judges include Mayor Michael Nutter and "Top Chef's" Jennifer Carroll. The all-you-can-eat-and-drink event is open to the public, and all who buy tickets by Friday will be entered to win a spot as citizen judge.

Vendy history

The Vendy Awards started six years ago in New York City as "a celebration of respect and gratitude for vendors and everything they provide — from your morning coffee and bagel to the $2 umbrella when you get caught in the thunderstorm."

Yearly proceeds are donated to organizations that benefit street vendors. The awards were held last year in Los Angeles; Philadelphia is the third city to be honored.

Campbell layoffs in Camden

NEW JERSEY. Camden-based Campbell's Soup is laying off 770 workers, including more than 100 in Camden, to reduce overhead costs, according to reports.

The company is also closing its plant in Moscow and getting out of the Russian market, while it will expand operations in Australia. The company will eliminate 130 positions at its Camden headquarters and outsource its U.S. merchandising to Acosta Sales and Marketing. METRO

Unconscious boy critical

WEST PHILADELPHIA. A 3-year-old boy is in critical condition after suffering blunt force trauma in an unspecified incident yesterday morning, police said.

Authorities responded to an apartment at 47th and Chestnut streets where the boy's godmother reported that she couldn't get him up. The godmother was being questioned, but no charges have been filed. METRO/SDL

Philly peaceniks celebrate five years

RITTENHOUSE SQUARE. Grannies Peace Brigade, an antiwar group that garnered much local attention when more than 10 elderly women got arrested for a 2006 sit-in protest at a Center City military recruiting office, will celebrate "five years of peace activism" today.

They have a message for President Barack Obama, who coincidentally will be in town for fundraisers:

"To end the ward in Afghanistan and Iraq," member Jean Haskell said. "He's become much more of a war president than even [George W.] Bush."

Meeting turns violent over bar

◗ Bar owner says he won't press charges over alleged attack ◗ He wants to end contention over his new bar

Real estate developers often complain about the headache of dealing with community groups in Philadelphia. For one developer, it turned really ugly this week.

John Longacre, owner of South Philly Taproom, made a brief presentation Monday night to the Point Breeze community for the American Sardine Bar he plans to open at 18th and Federal streets. After residents overwhelmingly voted in favor of the project and the meeting ended, community member Sylvia Wilkins allegedly attacked Longacre, leaving him with some scratches.

"She lunged at him and had her nails dug into his chest and pushed him into a bookshelf. It was horrible."

ANTOINETTE JOHNSON, DIRECTOR OF THE POINT BREEZE PIONEERS

A video posted on YouTube shows Wilkins being put in the back of a police squad car, but there are no arrest documents because Longacre declined to press charges.

"I decided that I'm not going to press charges because I just don't want it to get bigger than it is," he said. "I wasn't injured, there are no bruises."

He claims Wilkins has tried several times to stop the project by writing letters to Councilwoman Anna Verna's office and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, despite support from four other groups. Wilkins could not be reached for comment.

Claudia Sherrod, who helped organize the meeting, claims that the assault never took place, but declined to elaborate further.

▶ More than 15,000 regular-sized Wawa hoagies combined to make the massive sandwich.

Getting plumped up for July Fourth weekend partying

What is more than four times the weight of the Liberty Bell and equal to the weight of 30 Phillie Phanatics? A 4 1/2-ton Wawa hoagie, of course.

Jumpstarting a long weekend of Wawa's Welcome America festivities honoring July Fourth, Hoagie Fest showed hundreds of sandwiches lined up as part of at Independence Mall yesterday.

The massive hoagie — which was actually 15,000 regular-size hoagies — consisted of 9,000 pounds of ingredients and took 150 chefs more than four hours to prepare. Hoagies were served to a few thousand people waiting in various lines throughout Independence Mall within 30 minutes.

"This is a great event. I love the free food," Viviana Dodson, who drove five hours from Virginia to come to Philadelphia for Fourth of July weekend, said. "It was definitely worth the car ride."

The other Wawa Welcomes America events were a hot topic while people chatted in lines and chowed down.

"I am going to all of the Fourth of July festivities. I went to the fireworks last week, Hoagie Day today and I can't wait for Earth Wind and Fire on Monday," James Evans of East Falls said.

Five thousand of the 15,000 total hoagies made were given to Philabundance to distribute throughout the Philadelphia area.

Infamous Kelly death in court

MANTUA. Jury selection is expected to begin today in the endangering the welfare of children case against Daniel Kelly, father of 14-year-old Danieal Kelly — whose ghastly starvation death shook the city's confidence in the Department of Human Services. Danieal suffered from cerebral palsy and died in 2006. She was nearly paralyzed, weighed less than 50 pounds and had maggot-infested bedsores.

Her mother Andrea pleaded guilty to third-degree murder and child endangerment in 2009 and was sentenced to 20-40 years in prison. Others with ties to a social-services contractor were also convicted of federal charges in connection with the case. A grand jury report blamed DHS for failing to protect the girl, and led to ongoing child-welfare reforms.

Daniel Kelly, who didn't live in the Mantua house, has two children with Andrea. METRO/BPH

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Diana at 50: What if she lived?

- On July 1, Princess Diana would have turned 50
- Metro speaks with royal commentators, who reveal what her life would have been like today
- Behind the Newsweek cover photoshop

▶ This photoshopped image of Princess Diana at age 50 appeared on the Newsweek website, fueling debate over what some have called her zombie-like appearance. What do you think?

Busy on Twitter and Facebook, committed in humanitarian causes, remarried and living in New York: This would have been Princess Diana's life had she been alive to celebrate her 50th birthday tomorrow.

At least, that's according to one renowned royal commentator and another book publisher chronicling Lady Di's life, with whom Metro spoke this week ahead of today's commemorative date.

British-born journalist and Diana biographer Andrew Norton believes at age 50, Diana would have America's East Coast as her homestead. "She would probably have ended up buying a house there," Norton told Metro. "In the last years of her life, Diana was heading west, mixing with the movers and shakers of New York City and Washington, D.C. She was spending time with big hitters, people like Colin Powell, Henry Kissinger and Anna Wintour; she was becoming a familiar fixture on the East Coast social scene."

"If she were alive today, she would still be prospering in her role as a humanitarian activist," says Robert Sullivan, managing editor of LIFE Books who received compiled a commemorative photojournalistic book entitled "Diana at 50." "When she died, she and showed her empathy as her greatest talent."

That attitude for reaching out for others translated later on in Diana's life in her commitment in humanitarian causes. In 1997, she visited Mother Teresa's hospice in Calcutta, and at the same time she visited mine-affected countries like Angola and Bosnia to raise awareness on that issue.

What would not have to go on much further than that tragic summer is the relationship between Diana and Dodi Fayed, who died with her under the Pont de l'Alma in Paris: "The romance between Dodi and Diana was engineered by his father, who forced him to end his engagement to a Californian model in order to pursue the princess," Morton believes. "It was, according to those close to her that summer, just a summer fling — the romance more in the mind of Mohamed Fayed than the princess. She would probably have ended up marrying a wealthy entrepreneur — following a similar path to Jacqueline Kennedy."

(the then-UK prime minister) Tony Blair were on the verge of talking about what she could do, either officially or semi-officially for the government." Sullivan told Metro that Diana's willingness and attitude to help others less fortunate was evident, even in her childhood: "When we put together this celebratory book, her photographs of her child when she was very young

What were they thinking?

NEW YORK. The most recent cover of Newsweek magazine — featuring a photoshopped image of Princess Diana at age 50, cavorting with new Princess Catherine Middleton — has created quite a stir on the Internet as news outlets and commentators alike ask: What in the world were they thinking? Editor-in-Chief Tina Brown has been on the defensive, making an appearance on MSNBC's "Morning Joe" to explain.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? IS THE NEWSWEEK COVER EFFECTIVE OR WEIRD AND OVER THE LINE? WRITE TO METRO: LETTERS@METRO.US

"Some people think it's kind of spooky, and should we have done it?" Brown said. "And, you know, others think it's very effective."

Brown continued: "I found it really interesting to imagine what she would be doing now. ... She loved being in the limelight, but she also would've really sort of professionalized all that humanitarian giving that she was doing." METRO/BS

Timeline

Princess Diana's life:

- 1961: Diana was born on July 1 as the youngest of three daughters of Edward John Spencer, Viscount Althorp, 8th Earl Spencer and Frances Ruth Burke Roche.
- 1981: Diana and Charles got married in St. Paul's Cathedral, in what many consider the "Wedding of the Century."
- 1982: Diana gave birth to her first child, William.
- 1984: Her second child, Harry, was born.
- 1997: On the night of Aug. 31, Diana, her lover (Dodi Al-Fayed) and their driver Henri Paul died in a car crash under the Pont de l'Alma in Paris.

Small headway on wildfire

POJOAQUE, N.M. A wildfire raged for a fourth day sparking miniblazes within one of the nation's top nuclear arms production complexes yesterday even as firefighters for the first time gained some ground in corralling the flames.

The so-called Las Conchas Fire, which continued to throw small offshoots onto the property of the Los Alamos National Laboratory, has scorched nearly 70,000 acres of adjacent pine woodlands since erupting Sunday in the Santa Fe National Forest. REUTERS

Greece backs austerity plan

ATHENS. Greek police fired teargas and battled masked demonstrators who attacked the finance ministry yesterday after lawmakers passed the first of two austerity bills demanded by international lenders to stave off default. REUTERS

$3.7T

In the 10 years since U.S. troops went into Afghanistan after 9/11, spending on war has totaled nearly $2.7 trillion. That doesn't include at least $1 trillion more in interest payments coming due and many billions more in expenses that cannot be counted, according to a study.

Amid debt talks, a call for stimulus

Obama pushes for new construction loans, payroll tax cut extension Warns GOP on tax breaks for wealthy

President Barack Obama called yesterday for new measures to spur hiring that are likely to further complicate talks with Republicans to bring the country's spiraling debt under control.

Obama's call came as the International Monetary Fund and the Treasury Department urged Washington to reach a deal soon. His push for new construction loans and an extension of a payroll tax cut could further alienate Republicans already incensed by Democratic demands for new tax revenue.

Challenging lawmakers to make "substantial progress" by the end of this week or cancel plans for the July Fourth holiday, Obama also sought to up pressure on Republicans by tying them to tax breaks for millionaires while warning about default.

"If the United States government, for the first time, cannot pay its bills, it defaults, then the consequences for the U.S. economy will be significant and unpredictable," he told a White House news conference, reminding Republican Party backers on Wall Street of the stakes involved.

With the country still struggling to emerge from the deepest recession since the 1930s, Obama said Congress needs to take steps to bring down the 9.1 percent unemployment rate even as it weighs medium-term austerity measures. REUTERS

Obama praises NY gay marriage

President Barack Obama yesterday praised New York's move to legalize same-sex marriage but stopped short of endorsing it himself, maintaining a stance that has frustrated many liberal supporters.

"What I've seen happen over the last several years, and what happened in New York last week, I think, was a good thing," he told a news conference.

New York became the most populous state to allow gay marriage on June 24, in a high-profile victory for gay rights activists ahead of the 2012 presidential and congressional elections. REUTERS

Just how much fun was The Countess having?

Countess LuAnn de Lesseps debuted two things Tuesday night at a party thrown for her by Life & Style magazine in New York: A new music video for the song "Chic C'est La Vie" and a new blond hairstyle. Also, it should be mentioned that she was having a lot of fun. Lots and lots of it. Heaps.

"I wanted to look glamorous and '30s Hollywood. I've always wanted to go blond and this is my big moment," she told Metro about her haircut, courtesy of Ted Gibson. She then proceeded to dissolve into a fit of fun-mentioning. "What fun! You know, singing is a childhood dream come true and it's so much fun and I'm having a great time. What fun to make a music video and to write music and to work on music!"

Just in case it wasn't clear what kind of time she was having, Jacques Azoulay (de Lesseps' French boyfriend) drove home the point: "I'm proud and happy of LuAnn because she's having a lot of fun," he told us before mentioning that he "wrote three words in the song — 'c'est bon,'" he disclosed. "[But] I can't sing to save my life. I play the piano. But Luann loves to sing to me."

▶ The Countess, now blond. Fun!

When asked if she was going to channel her inner-Madonna for her performance, the countess laughed us off. "It's just me having fun. The song is having fun and it's about the jet set and it's about confidence and beauty and elegance in the soul. There's a little hidden message in it that I love to do. It's a dream!"

Sounds ... well ... you know.

The dish on the video:

The video features "Real Housewives" co-stars Kelly Bensimon and Jill Zarin and was shot at The Borgata in Atlantic City. Zarin never thought she'd be in a music video. "I've never fantasized doing one because I can't sing," she says. "I can ice skate, with Salchow [jumps]. I don't really sing in the shower. Actually, I sing one song, 'Hotel California.' When we go to clubs or do karaoke, that's my one go-to song because I know all the words. It doesn't matter how I sing it. I get credit for knowing all the words." Husband Bobby Zarin then chimed in: "And I'm her backup!"

We refuse to grant any fun here. Any at all.

'Californication' divorcication

Sad news today in celebrity breakups: David Duchovny and Tea Leoni have separated, their reps confirm to TMZ. Sources tell the website that while the actors are taking some time apart, they have not yet decided if they will file for divorce. The couple previously separated in 2008, later reconciling after Duchovny entered rehab for sex addiction. They have two children, a daughter, 12, and a son, 9.

Is J.Lo worth a raise?

Will Jennifer Lopez's greed cost her a judges chair on "American Idol"? She has said she's "on the fence" about returning to "American Idol" next season, but sources close to the show claim the singer is simply angling for a pay hike — and it could cost her the whole gig, according to Popeater. Producers are reportedly already discussing replacements — including Shania Twain and Shakira — for Lopez, who earned $12 million for her first season as a judge on the reality competition. "Right now the star of 'American Idol' is Steven Tyler," a source says. "Everyone thought after Simon [Cowell] announced he was leaving that [Lopez] would fill the void. How wrong were they? It's all about Steven, who's already signed on for Season 11."

'Transformers: Dark of the Moon'

1 Michael Bay has paid for the sins of the last "Transformers" film with this straightened-out sequel featuring fight scenes in which you can actually see what's going on.

▶ Shia LaBeouf stars in the third installment of the "Transformers" franchise.

2 'Larry Crowne' It's nice to see Tom Hanks do something funny after so many dour (and questionably successful) films. As Larry, he's a down-on-his-luck guy trying to rebuild his life by attending community college.

3 'Monte Carlo' Leighton Meester, Katie Cassidy and Selena Gomez star in this tween-ified story about three girls traveling in Paris who are whisked away to Monte Carlo when one of them is mistaken for a British heiress.

4 'Cars 2' Owen Wilson and Larry the Cable Guy return to give voice to Lightning McQueen and Mater as they head to the World Prix Grand race.

5 'Bad Teacher' "Bad Teacher," "Horrible Bosses" ... apparently, we're having a bit of an employment crisis in Hollywood. This one stars Cameron Diaz as a lazy junior high teacher who decides to get her act together to woo a hot new colleague at the school (Justin Timberlake).

6 'Conan O'Brien Can't Stop' If you're not sick of Conan O'Brien making jokes about last year's late-night drama on NBC, then you need to see this no-holds-barred account of the comedy tour he went on once he lost his "Tonight Show" spot to Jay Leno.

7 'The Green Lantern' Ryan Reynolds saving lives in a skintight suit? Yes, we'll take it, thanks. This comic book adaptation celebrates one of the less notable superheroes with the support of co-stars Blake Lively and Peter Sarsgaard.

8 'Mr. Popper's Penguins' Jim Carrey, as a self-absorbed dad, is forced to rethink his priorities once he inherits six penguins. And no, they don't talk.

9 'Super 8' J.J. Abrams' latest monster movie, his homage to Steven Spielberg, is definitely one of the summer's biggest hits so far. It's like "E.T." meets "Goonies" meets "Cloverfield" — which can only be a good thing.

10 'Judy Moody and the NOT Bummer Summer' This summer's "Ramona and Beezus" features a plucky third-grader sent to stay with her wacky Aunt Opal while school's out. METRO

Ledisi: What she's all about

▶ "Shut Up"? Please don't, Ledisi!

Singer-songwriter Ledisi doesn't hold back on her new album, 'Pieces of Me' It's on heavy rotation in the White House

In 2004, singer-songwriter Ledisi — fed up with the pressure to conform to the mainstream music industry's female singer template — was ready to walk away from the biz. "I felt like quitting because I would send tapes to labels and wouldn't get picked up. I was told I would never make it," says the R&B-flavored coffeehouse singer. But persistence paid off — Verve signed the jazz-influenced star in the making, allowing her to record the albums "Lost & Found" and "Turn Me Loose," both of which were nominated for two Grammys. Earlier this month, she released "Pieces of Me." We caught up with the singer to talk about the message behind her self-confidence anthems and one of her most famous supporters who has shown the love — Michelle Obama.

Quoted

"People who supported me love who I am."
LEDISI

Michelle Obama is a fan. What was it like meeting her?
She's very down-to-earth. She turned people she knew on to my music. She has invited me for events where I sang and was among other great artists, such as Sting and Jamie Foxx. And she invited me to participate in a women's mentoring program. It was a huge confidence boost. I felt very honored. My music inspires her and she inspires me.

On your new album, "Hate Me" and "Shut Up" are pretty powerful songs.
"Hate Me" is a song to celebrate the independence of women — women who don't chase after men. No matter what age group, people go bananas over this song because they can relate. I get a big response every time. "Shut Up" is a song going against what negative things people would say. I would never change my image to fit in. I was always about being yourself. METRO

Site is bringing something new to the turntable

Welcome to your newest social-networking and music addiction 'Play Music Together' is Turntable.fm's slogan and reason for being

You can't tell from this pic, but everybody is nodding their heads.

In the days of Napster, there was something so joyful about the "sharing" part of file sharing. Just knowing that the songs you were downloading were from the library of a user who had to be online at that moment was exciting. And this is something that file sharing sites and apps (both legal and illegal) seem to have forgotten — sorry, Ping and Pandora. But that swapping is the very principle that makes Turntable.fm spin.

Launched last month, the site had about 80,000 daily users as of last week. This new online hot spot functions like an online version of iPod Night at your local bar. For now, you have to have a friend on Facebook who has logged onto Turntable.fm to try it. If you do, you can either enter a "room" or create one. If you choose to enter one, you'll see little cartoon people on a stage DJing, and likely a crowd of other characters gathered in front listening. The people on the stage take turns playing songs and generally try to keep their selections within the same tone or style of music as the previous person. But there's always room for changing it up. Once one of those five people opts out, any of the users in front can jump up and take a turn. Or you can create a room and keep it among your friends. But when you're dealing with strangers, there's a higher potential for discovering artists you don't already know. If you like what you hear, you click "Awesome," and your cartoon character will bob his or her head up and down and the person who spun the song will get a DJ Point. If you don't like the song, you can click "Lame." Enough "Lame" responses yank the song and give the next DJ the floor. There's also a message board where people in the room can discuss what's playing.

pat.healy@metro.us

Get a 'room'

If you're intimidated to try the turntables in front of strangers, virtual or otherwise, create a room with a group of friends. And if you are the creator of a room, you can actually boot people off the DJ table!

LEARN MORE ABOUT TURNTABLE.FM

Ready to rock out

Turntable founders Seth Goldstein and Billy Chasen seem to still be working out some kinks. Here's what we like and dislike most about Turntable.fm right now.

Lame:
- You can't upload your own pics to create your avatar.
- You have to convert M4A files from iTunes into MP3s.
- The music inexplicably stops every now and then.

Awesome:
- You can upload absolutely any MP3 in your collection.
- You also have access to a library of songs in the Turntable.fm database.
- You can discover and introduce people to new music.
- If you like a tune somebody plays, you can add it to your queue, buy it from iTunes or use it with Spotify or Last.fm.

Why you should embrace sexting

Forget public figures — why would any sane person send photos of their private parts? There is only one man who could help us understand the sexting psyche: Chad Kultgen, the Tucker Max-esque author of the feminist-enraging cult works "The Average American Male," "The Lie" and now, "Men, Women & Children" — a novel that explores our new Internet landscape and how it affects interpersonal relationships. Here, he argues for us to embrace sexting behavior.

▶ You're still hip: The 13-year-old kid who lives in your building has sent images of his genitalia to every girl he knows and he's the most popular kid in his class. If you're not sexting, it might as well be 1986 and you refuse to listen to rap because you "can't understand what they're saying when they talk so fast."

▶ You will be drunk: You have a fun night out on the town but end up going home alone. You look through your contact list for a booty call and get no response except from someone who's out of town. You're going to send them a picture of your genitals. It can't be helped.

▶ Avoid having the sex conversation with your kids: Just give them a cell phone and within a few weeks they will have figured it all out on their own — probably with images of their friends' genitals to help.

▶ It's the new scrapbooking: Why remember eras in your life with photos of peoples' faces when you could have photos of their genitals? No one cares about the graduation or the wedding — they care about the person they had sex with at the graduation or wedding. METRO

One more reason

The president will do it

We all know congressmen enjoy sexting, but eventually our beloved commander in chief is going to send a lewd text to his wife (or more likely not to his wife) and then all bets are off. Once the leader of the free world has his penis on the Internet, you're going to feel compelled to do your duty as an American and follow suit.

Adventures in drinking

Next Saturday evening, Hendrick's Gin is swinging through the Union League for a Victorian-themed evening of cocktails, traditional high tea (with cakes!) and adventure stories from Charles Brewer-Carias Esq., a 71-year-old explorer with his sights set on El Dorado. It's all exquisitely strange and smells faintly of steampunk, which is why we're glad they'll be serving plenty of these:

Hendrick's Buck
What's in it:
- 1 part Hendrick's Gin
- Ginger ale
- Juice of 1/2 of a lemon

How to make it:
In a tall glass filled with a few cubes of ice, add one part gin to the juice of half of a lemon. Top up with ginger ale.

Gay rights and wrongs

RE: "PROS, CONS OF GAY MARRIAGE": Those against gay marriage use the Bible as their source. However, nowhere in the Bible does it mention that marriage is between one man and one woman. In those ancient times, in fact, the standard was polygamy. PETER BURRIS, VIA E-MAIL

Any society based on separation of church and state, like ours, shouldn't care how religions define "marriage." Historically, when African-Americans were allowed this civil right after emancipation, despite much religious objection, it was still called "marriage." CHAD GROSS, VIA E-MAIL

New York's vote doesn't demonstrate a "bizarre" minority position, but how fearful and behind the times most of the country is. It's utterly disgraceful that, in 2011, we're still "debating" this. THOMAS S. FERRUGIA, VIA E-MAIL

Those critics of the law should remember that our government was founded on the belief that "all men are created equal." It is an abomination that some states have amended their constitutions to deny equal rights. RICHARD E. WEBER, JR., VIA E-MAIL

Separate but equal is not equal. If religious connotation of the word "marriage" is what causes issues for people opposing gay marriage, then the government should stop recognizing marriages altogether. JARED EGAN, VIA E-MAIL

I am tired of people calling gay marriage blasphemous and sacrilegious. Marriage is not a religious practice just because you can get married in a church. People who are not religious get married as well. Just because you were brought up to believe something, it doesn't mean it is right. YESENIA TORRES, VIA E-MAIL

Like Herb Stark, I am for allowing gay marriage if it is named differently in order to protect the sanctity of its heterosexual forebear. My proposal: schmarriage. All schmarried couples have equal rights as married couples. Elder gay couples can celebrate their 50th schwedding anniversaries, midlifers can renew their schvows, and freshly hitched couples can revel in their schnuptial bliss. STEVEN AHERN, VIA E-MAIL

Religion has nothing to do with the legal rights of a human being. In fact, most marriages are not based in religion — just on love. MICHAEL DIMARTINO, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. It's nice of them to offer, but don't let associates attempt to do something for you that you feel you can do better.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. There is a strong chance that an unusual development might arise that could affect your material well-being if you're not on top of it. Heed your instincts.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. When you select your companions, choose those who are your equal intellectually. Don't consider anyone who can't keep up with your thinking.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Impressive objectives are reachable, but only if you're prepared to pay whatever price you must in order to achieve them. Unless you focus on success, you could easily be deterred.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. In order to win over supporters as well as have possibilities for success, your intentions must be clearly spelled out. Tell it like it is, warts and all.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. A matter in which you're involved can be further adjusted to potentially provide much greater rewards. Study it closely before you go off in a direction where there's no turning back.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. As long as you're realistic, you should be able to renegotiate a matter of significance. You may not get everything you want, but you might be able to rework it a bit.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. When planning your day, you should put fun and games at the bottom of your list, not at the top. By keeping your priorities in perspective, you should be able to get to do everything you desire.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Although there are periods when you want to work solely on your own, there are also days when a collective effort is far more advantageous. It might be one of those times.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Instead of concentrating only on negative factors, trust that something good is on its way that could benefit you in needed ways. It's a development that unites, not divides.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Seek out those friends or associates who really believe in you and in what you're doing if you think you need some financial or business advice. They're the ones who'll be the most helpful. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

LET'S GO CLUBBING

When PGA Tour professionals need new equipment, TaylorMade is there Technicians on hand for practice rounds at AT&T National Churn out brand new drivers in five minutes

Huddled in the caravan of trailers and trucks, near the driving range at Aronimink Golf Club, sits a portable golf buffet.

Or, as club technician Henry Luna describes it, "We're sort of like a NASCAR pit crew for golfers."

Luna and Wade Liles serve as club technicians for TaylorMade. Inside the truck, there are three work stations — with drawers stocked with grips, shafts, tips and heads.

They can build a driver from start to finish in five minutes. A set of irons takes about 45 minutes. And they take great pride in their work.

"We have the No. 1 driver on the Tour since 2001," Liles said. "Forty percent of Tour players are carrying TaylorMade drivers in their bags."

This week, the duo was stationed in Newtown Square for the AT&T National, where they are crafting clubs for the Tour's elite players. Blake Adams had a new set of irons made, K.J. Choi opted for drivers and Mike Weir had new grips installed. By 4 p.m. yesterday, the duo had hit the road for Illinois and the John Deere Classic.

▶ Luna

"The travel schedule is hectic, but I love it," said Liles, who started with the company in 1987. "I dedicated myself to TaylorMade, and they've dedicated themselves to me."

The breakdown

Tools of the trade

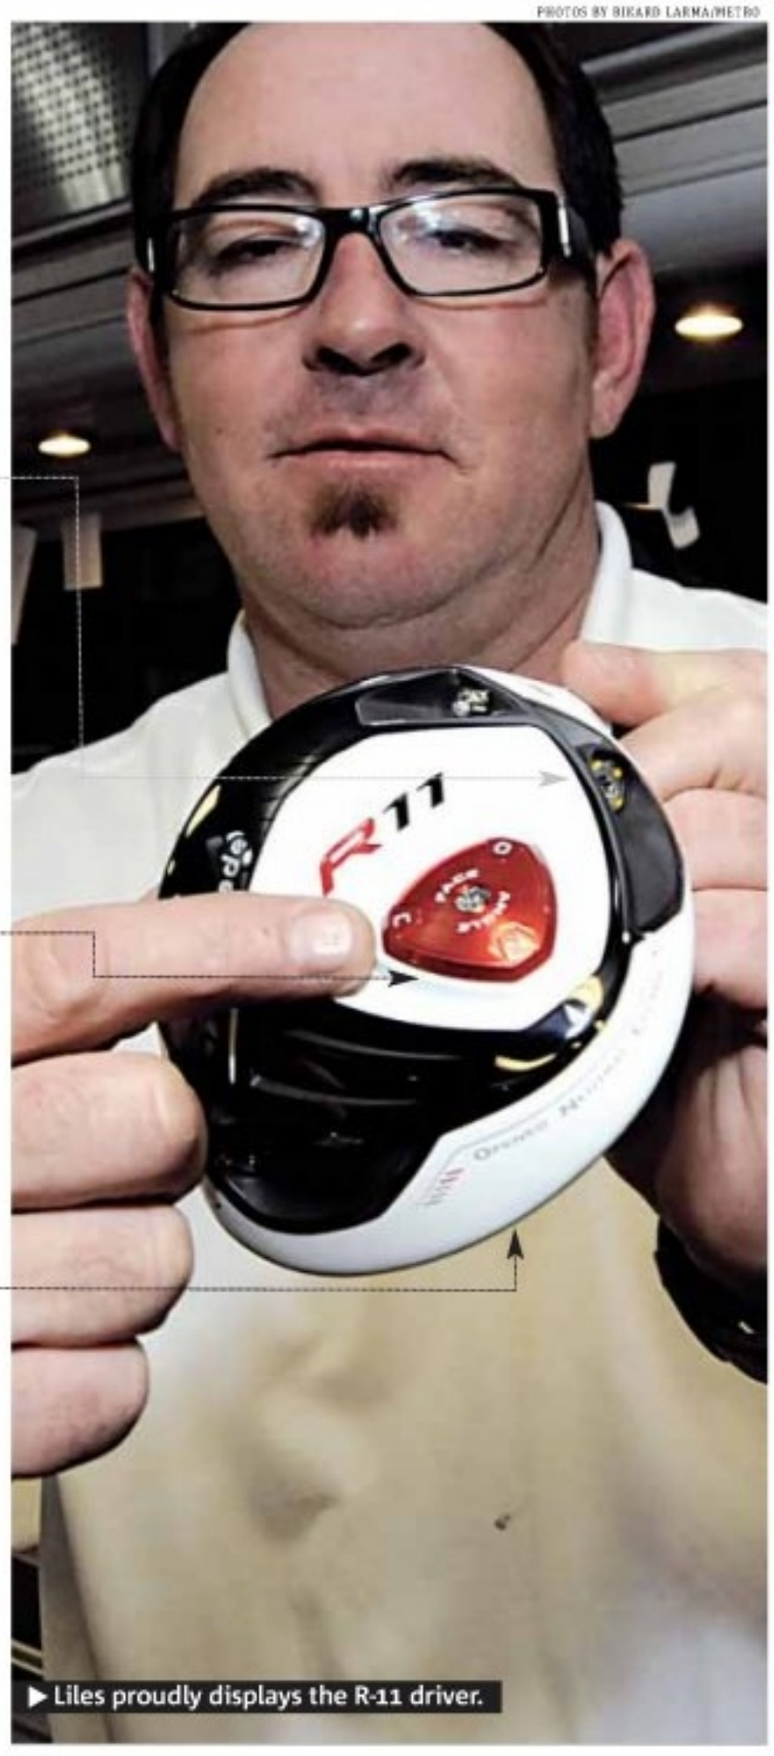
PHOTOS BY RIKARD LARMA/METRO



▶ Liles proudly displays the R-11 driver.

Weights

▶ Movable Weight Technology allows users to tune the driver's center of gravity. Using a tool, you can unscrew the 10-gram weight in the heel and move it to the toe (this will help on a right-to-left draw shot). Or you can take the 1-gram weight in the toe and move it closer to the heel ( this will help keep it straight).

Soul Plate

▶ Adjustable Sole Plate technology allows you to set the club face in three different positions. The sole plate is completely removeable, with three settings: open, neutral, and close. Each one can be tuned by two degrees.

Hosel

▶ Flight Control Technology allows you to increase or decrease your loft by as much as half a degree. It is also detachable, via a travel-sized tool, and allows for eight unique positions.

Driving the point home

If Apple made drivers, they'd probably be built in the mold of the R-11. It's the ultimate for adjustability.

Users can customize all parts of the club head, including heel and toe weighting, the sole plate and the hosel. There are eight different positions on the hosel, allowing golfers to alter loft by half a degree.

"You make your own adjustments," Liles said. "We are two to three years beyond the other companies in regard to technology."

TaylorMade's newest innovation is something called White Technology, which made its debut last winter.

The company basically took its existing R-9 drivers and gave them a paint job. By coloring the heads white, instead of black, they look bigger than life.

"If you're hitting something that looks bigger, you're probably going to hit it farther," Wade Liles said.

White Technology has been scientifically proven to reduce glare, since white is less reflective against the contrast of green grass. That cuts down on distractions and makes it easier to line up a shot.

"Look at it, it just looks cleaner," Henry Luna said. METRO

AT&T National starts today at Aronimink

There won't be a Tiger on the course, but the AT&T National starts today at Aronimink Golf Club.

D.J. Trahan, Charlie Wi, and Bobby Gates hit hole No. 1 at 7:20 a.m., with Andres Romero, Graham DeLaet and Cameron Tringale teeing off at the same time from hole No. 10.

The 120-player field includes several stars not named Tiger Woods, including: Ernie Els, Lucas Glover, Hunter Mahan, Jim Furyk, Justin Rose, Vijay Singh and Hunter Mahan.

The tourney's purse is at $6.2 million. METRO

PGA Tour stop?

After this week's AT&T National and the 2013 U.S. Open at Merion, there is nothing on the PGA Tour calendar in the Philly area. But Tour commish Tim Finchem hopes to return soon. "This is a place where you don't want to be gone for very long." METRO

3 things we saw at CBP

- Phillies 2, Red Sox 1
- Up Next: vs. Red Sox, today, 1:05 p.m.

1 Respect Raul. Perhaps it's too early to bury streaky outfielder Raul Ibanez, who entered the game hitting a paltry .230. Ibanez drove in both of the Phillies' runs and was a triple short of the cycle. The classy senior member of the squad also stole his second base of the season.

2 At first Vance. Despite giving up a two-out, two-strike double to opposing pitcher John Lackey, who drove in the Red Sox lone run, Worley pitched well. Not Cliff Lee well ... but mortal well. Worley gave up just five hits and a run, while striking out five in seven solid innings. Worley pounded the plate — 82 of his 116 pitches were strikes.

3 Bullish. It hasn't been used all that often lately but when the relievers have been on the mound, they've been very good. Rookie Michael Stutes pitched a clean eighth and Antonio Bastardo, the Phillies' fourth closer in 2011 — and we're only halfway through the season — shut the door in the ninth inning for the save.

Injury bug unites Phillies, Red Sox in recent seasons

Rival clubs winning without key players ◗ Both still considered World Series favorites ◗ Series finale today

The Phillies and Red Sox have quite a bit in common. Both clubs are supported by rabid fan bases. Each organization is the odds-on favorite to represent its league in the World Series. And they've been bitten hard by the injury bug in recent years.

Despite the loss of key players, the Phillies managed to win more games (97) in the regular season than any team in baseball and advance to the NLCS.

"We've been fortunate since we have a lot of depth," third baseman Placido Polanco said. "We would lose guys, but we would have guys come in and do a great job. That's why we won so many games. We overcame the injuries as best we could."

The same can't be said for the Sox, who faded late in the season.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Joe Blanton (elbow) is aiming to return after the All-Star break.

"The injuries got to be too much late last year," Red Sox catcher Jason Varitek said. 'When you lose that many key guys for prolonged periods like Pedey (Pedroia), Victor (Martinez) and the list goes on, that makes it very difficult for a team."

Each squad has a pretty large MASH unit. The Sox have lost pricey Japanese import Daisuke Matsuzaka for the season. John Lackey and Beckett have missed time. Free agent Carl Crawford is on the DL.

The Phillies are on their fourth closer. Chase Utley missed the first month and a half. Starters Roy Oswalt and Joe Blanton are on the shelf. However, the Phillies own the best record in baseball and the Sox have the second-finest mark in the American League.

"You have to play your way through times when starters are injured," Polanco said. "It helps when you have guys that can come in and do the job."

Shocking result at All England Club

Federer falls to Tsonga at Wimbledon Second year in a row he's out in quarterfinals Nadal gets Murray

Shocked. Awed. Ousted.

Roger Federer won't be claiming his seventh Wimbledon title, after squandering a two-set lead yesterday against Jo-Wilfried Tsonga. The Swiss star was up two sets, but still left the All England Club in the quarterfinals for the second straight year.

"When I was 20, I would have been crushed," Federer said. "I don't have that mental stress. It's different when you're older and you've accomplished as much as I have."

Tsonga will face Novak Djokovic (46-1, 2011) in Friday's semifinals. Defending champion Rafael Nadal gets Andy Murray. METRO

Union shooting for different result

When the first-place Union head to our nation's capital to face conference rival D.C. United on Saturday night, it will be a homecoming of sorts for team manager Peter Nowak.

Nowak, in his second season as manager, was the United team manager for three seasons, culminating with a MLS Cup in 2004. This will be the first of two meetings between the two squads this season. The last time these two clubs faced each other in MLS regulation play was Aug. 22, 2010, at RFK Stadium, where D.C. blanked the expansion Union, 2-0. But D.C. eliminated Philadelphia on penalty kicks, 4-2, back on April 6 in US Open Cup play.

On TV Saturday

Union at D.C. United, 7 p.m. (FOX SOCCER)

"I think the stuff in that game, we made a couple mistakes, those games on the road are different than the home games," Nowak said.

With a victory this weekend, the Union will tie their total number of wins from last year (7).

"There's been many factors, but you don't want to explore a lot them right now, it's not time for that," Nowak said. "I think during the preseason and offseason we realized what personnel we needed and how to improve the locker room as well."

If the playoffs started today, the second-year franchise would qualify with the best record in the Eastern Conference — at 7-4-5 (26 points). But they'll have to fight for home-field advantage, especially since the Union is undefeated at PPL Park this season.

COPD Patients: Breathing Device May Help You Breathe Easier and Feel Better

Temple University is conducting a research trial to find out whether using a breathing device at nighttime can help COPD patients breathe easier and feel better all the time. This device, called a noninvasive positive airway pressure ventilator (NPPV), is commonly used for sleep apnea.

To be a part of this trial you must:
- Have COPD
- Be 18 to 80 years of age
- Not be currently using a breathing device such as BiPAP or CPAP

You will receive a NPPV device and study-related medical tests, including breathing and blood tests, at no cost to you during the trial.

The trial consists of an initial visit to the research facility, Temple Lung Center, and a hospital stay of up to 5 days. After the hospital stay, you will use the NPPV device for at least 6 hours every night and make 5 more visits over 3 months. You may be compensated up to $875 for completing the trial.

For more information, call 215-707-1359 or e-mail breathe@temple.edu and refer to the BiPAP trial.

Bridal extensions 101

Everything you wanted to know about getting instantly longer locks for the big day We spoke with hair extensions kingpin Angelo David to get the best advice for your new big 'do

JUPITERIMAGES

Should a bride wait until she has her dress before coming in for a consultation?

"I highly suggest having the dress finalized first before looking into hair extensions. The look of the dress will determine what type and how much extension is needed."

4-6

How far in advance of a wedding should a bride start working with a hair stylist?

"Four to six months, which gives the bride enough time to decide the looks she wants and make changes, if necessary. She can start by looking at magazines and discussing the looks she wants during the consultation."

Are there certain kinds of extensions that are more suitable for a wedding (i.e., clipped on as opposed to sewn in)?

"I personally prefer using clip-ons because it allows me enough flexibility to play around with the hair. Not to mention, clip-ons are less time consuming than having the extension sewn in."

How many days before the wedding should the bride have the extensions put in?

"For people opting for fillers, I suggest having them put in two weeks in to allow hair to be "lived in," to make it more natural looking. [Clip-on extensions] can be put in the day of the event, assuming a trial run was done beforehand."

Foursquare hack turns New York into a giant game of Risk

The board game Risk, in which players maneuver plastic armies on a map in order to achieve "world domination," has firmly occupied one corner of nerdom for about 50 years. Foursquare stationed itself in another more tech-oriented corner of that same kingdom about two years ago. Now, at last, the two categories of nerdom meet.

"World of Fourcraft" uses Foursquare and Google Maps APIs to turn New York City into a giant game of Risk. Users decide which team they are on by swearing allegiance to one of New York City's five boroughs. Checking into a neighborhood on Foursquare is the online game's equivalent to placing plastic man on a country in the board game. An algorithm decides who owns each neighborhood using the number of people who have checked into it on each team.

Quoted

"The only reward is the feeling of pride you normally only get from being re-tweeted."
THE RULES OF 'WORLD OF FOURCRAFT'

"We wanted to make foursquare more compelling for long-term use," says Ricky Robinett, one member of the seven-person team that created the game during a weekend hackathon at New York's General Assembly. "[On Foursquare] you have a weekly total that gets swiped at the end of the week. This keeps adding up."

Three days in, it looks like Manhattan is winning the game, which took the "Best Location Hack" award at the hackathon. Not that winning gets you coupons or anything.

"There are no prizes. There are no celebrations. The only reward is the feeling of pride you normally only get from being re-tweeted," explains the rules on the site.

Publishers launch first digital-only textbook

McGraw-Hill launched its first all-digital, cloud-based textbook for the K-12 market on Monday at the International Society for Technology in Education conference.

Unlike the company's previous digital efforts for this age group, the books are intended to be used as primary texts (other McGraw-Hill digital texts have been sold as a companion of physical textbooks). This is the first time a major publisher has launched such a platform.

Grade schools and high schools have been slower to adopt digital textbooks than universities, at least partly because K-12 textbooks are traditionally provided by schools — many of which lack hardware to ensure that all of their students can access them.
